III. Non-establishment of opinion with regard to novelty, inventive step and industrial applicability

1. The questions whether the claimed invention appears to be novel, to involve an inventive step (to be non obvious), or to be industrially applicable have not been examined in respect of:

by the description that no meaningful opinion could be formed.

☒ no international search report has been established for said claims Nos. 2-20

2. A meaningful international preliminary examination cannot be carried out due to the failure of the nucleotide and/or amino acid sequence listing to comply with the standard provided for in Annex C of the Administrative Instructions:

Supplemental Box

(To be used when the space in any of the preceding boxes is not sufficient)

Continuation of: IV.3

The features set forth in claims 1 and 11 are disclosed in document 1 (JP 2-35200 Y2 (N. V. Philips' Gloeilampenfabrieken), 21 September 1990), document 2 (JP 1-24880 Y2 (Shimadzu Corp.), 26 July 1989) and document 3 (JP 2-28640 Y2 (Toshiba Corp.), 31 July 1990); thus, they lack novelty. Therefore, there exists no principal component common to all of claims 1-20 which constitutes a novel feature that is specific to these inventions.

Consequently, there is no common feature that can be considered to be a special technical feature among the invention set forth in claim 1, the inventions set forth in claims 2, 3, 6-10, 12, 13 and 16-20, the inventions set forth in claims 4, 7, 9, 14, 17 and 19, the inventions set forth in claims 5, 7, 9, 15, 17 and 19, the inventions set forth in claims 7, 9, 17 and 19, and the invention set forth in claim 11; thus, it is impossible to find a technical link among these different inventions.

Therefore, the inventions set forth in claims 1-20 do not fulfill the requirement of unity of invention.
